

THE NEED OF INTERNATIONAL MARKETING through the NET.

DCLabs believes on global market hence his decision on contributing to promote the implementation of this great opportunity. Our conviction is still that international marketing should be implemented in it's global platform using today's available technological instrumentations, knowledge and global solidarity.

The world's market is still to be explored and developed for there are still much more to be done. The industrialized part of the world has reached it's higher level, whereby if nothing is done to avoid explosion of the whole system, avoiding thereby savage and uncontrollable controversial civilization and progress, it's immediate drastic results will not only lead to socio-economic and environmentally irremediable disaster but will also be so drastic enough to negatively effect the entire planet.

Exploration and Extension of global development, specially the undeveloped part of the glob will not only avoid any future socio-economic, environmental havoc but will positively help boast the living standard of the entire planet specially those undeveloped areas, whereby each and every member of it's habitant will surely benefit increasingly permitting thereby a wide range of social and economical relief to the already developed areas.

The implementation need of International Marketing gives chances for a real balanced redistributions of world's wealth and intelligence giving more spaces for a global better living, adequate controllable security and better environmental conditions for all.

The World's natural resources, both raw and finished including it's related services and intelligences needs adequate redistribution in other to merge or rather reduce that socio-economic gap between North and South.

All material instruments needed to make it a reality, are all at hand today, we only need to add or introduce just that common sense and wills for its' realization. Our future depends on us today.

With the internet communication technologies and the high grade of organizational intelligence, the Global Market has no limit and has nothing to fear in terms of worldwide social and economic security.

The need to create World Commercial mega-bridge does the miracle giving:

- that long dreamed opportunities for those interested in finding new markets thereby increasing the industrialized world's productivities.
- giving also the opportunities for those seeking, to achieve their goals in obtaining finished products and services and reducing the handicaps for better living.

The above are the 2 important means through which a global development can take place for a reciprocal opportunities and a better socio-economic world.

Our initial objective is to create that presumption of a global redistributions of finished and raw products where needed. In the other hand an equal commercial communication between who BUYS and who SELLS through the net thereby satisfying all needs and wants.

The demands of both states of products are very much increasing on both sides mostly for finished products but the global ignorance and or fear for risks seems to hinder these opportunities. This is where DCLabs wish to play it's intermediary roles bringing forth the knowledge to those who don't know how to or where to obtain their product and securing those fears, reducing thereby the risks of not knowing where to and or who to trust for a true distribution of their finished products and services.

We have those willing to achieve these products and we know how to reach them better. It's our wish to let know them too, all through the net. Just one connection and the job is done.

This is one of the most important objective of DCLabs coupled with many other relatively objectives.
